Anahit Karapetyan

It was the sprawling mountains, fresh air and beautiful vistas that attracted Anahit Karapetyan and her family to the Silver Saddle Ranch. "I just love the nature here," says the Armenia native who has been in the States for five years. Anahit, along with her husband, Sergay visited the Ranch for the first time with her cousin, Vagan who owns two lots of land. Anahit and Sergay were both impressed with the Ranch and thought it would be a good place to possibly build a home for retirement or a second home to rent out. The couple eventually bought three lots of land and has referred many friends to the Ranch.

"I've literally brought hundreds of people here. I have told so many people about it. We just love going there so we don't mind telling others why we like it so much and once they see it, they're usually sold too," says Anahit.

Anahit and Sergay, who live in Winnetka, make the one-hour-and-forty-minute drive to Silver Saddle every week and sometimes travel there several times a week. They usually bring their son, Narek who enjoys being at the Ranch. "He just loves the horses. He's always asking when we can go back. It's a place where he can really run free."

The Karapetyan's agent is Marlin Tajo.
